

HUMAN RESEARCH QUALIFICATIONS

All researchers and their staff (co-investigators, all those involved in direct patient care, the consent process or confidential data access) must demonstrate that they are familiar with the laws and ethical standards governing the responsible conduct of research. Attach evidence documenting completion of the NIH web based ethics tutorial (a certificate is printed upon completion; <http://cme.cancer.gov/> under 'Education for Research Teams') or similar evidence of formal training in research ethics offered by a qualified educational institution or sponsored by a professional organization, or other similar evidence.
