The year in philanthropy

2001

The community makes a generous commitment to Advocate
As a not-for-profit organization, Advocate Health Care is deeply engaged in the communities we serve. The relationship is a close and reciprocal one: the community looks to Advocate’s eight hospitals and 200 sites of care for outstanding clinical care and outreach programs, while Advocate relies on the community for leadership, volunteers and essential philanthropic support.

The growing strength of this relationship made 2001 a banner year for philanthropy across Advocate. Through the Advocate Charitable Foundation, our donors — grateful patients and their families, associates, physicians, corporations, foundations and other organizations — contributed or pledged $30,779,000 to hospital needs and system-wide initiatives. That total — a 59 percent increase over the year 2000 — set a new standard for the community’s generosity toward Advocate. In 2001, fundraising activity by the Advocate Charitable Foundation generated $5.42 in gifts and pledges for each $1 in foundation operational expenses.

Philanthropy is a not-for-profit organization’s “venture capital.” Contributions are applied according to the donor’s wishes, at a specific site or across the system, in the form of capital expenditures, program support or endowment, to initiate and sustain many clinical excellence and community outreach initiatives that could not be funded otherwise. With their gifts, our donors improved the quality of life for millions of their neighbors.

Advocate is a leader among health care providers, nationally and locally. By partnering with Advocate, our donors also took a leading role in improving health in their communities.
Ensuring access to health care

Nearly 700,000 residents of metropolitan Chicago have no health care insurance. Many more are underinsured. Without insurance, many of our neighbors must delay or forego needed health care. Cultural and geographic barriers keep many more from seeking the care they need. Contributed funds support projects that make it possible for us to care for thousands who might otherwise not be served.

Removing Barriers, Achieving Excellence

At a health center based in Lake View High School on Chicago’s North Side near Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center, teens can access primary care services and counseling with a full-time clinical psychiatrist. The two North Side Health Network centers had 7,000 visits last year.
Advancements happen in health care every day. To remain state-of-the-art, Advocate must constantly upgrade its facilities, equipment and practices. Doing so is expensive — a financial burden we are committed not to place on our patients. Every year, donors contribute essential funds for projects that keep our facilities and equipment among the nation’s best.
Helping those with special needs

Some people need care beyond the conventional. Hearing-impaired people who need psychiatric help. Autistic children who cannot visit a traditional dentist. Down syndrome patients who outlive their parents. Too often, those with such needs fall between the cracks of traditional health care. Programs that meet these needs are often complex and rarely pay for themselves. Philanthropy allows Advocate to provide programs for those who might be overlooked.
Embracing the spiritual dimension of care
It takes more than medical care to restore and sustain health. Driven by values grounded in faith, Advocate’s commitment to treat the whole person — mind, body and spirit — takes many forms: parish nurses who care for entire church congregations, pastors who train for service in health care settings, caregivers who simply take the extra moment to minister to the human, spiritual needs of our patients. Our donors provide essential funds to ensure this work continues.

Ensuring health, community-wide
As we treat the whole person, our hospitals take a similarly comprehensive approach to the health needs of whole communities. They provide the full array of services needed to keep their neighborhoods healthy — primary care, trauma services, acute care, rehabilitation, education and prevention. And, because our care network spans the region, programs pioneered in one community can be expanded to many others, allowing Advocate to make an effective impact on health needs of the entire Chicagoland community.

Through an integrated approach to asthma education and management, Advocate Trinity Hospital (pictured), Bethany Hospital and Advocate Health Centers target the south- and west-side neighborhoods of Chicago, reducing asthma-related hospital admissions and emergency room visits.
Unlocking the Promise of the Future

Advocate trains more primary care physicians than any other non-university hospital in Illinois. By supporting medical education, our donors not only help us provide an excellent, values-centered preparation for new caregivers, they sustain an intellectually rigorous environment in our hospitals — the kind of environment that attracts the best medical professionals and results in outstanding patient care.
Transferring care through integrated delivery

As medical knowledge expands, health care grows more complex. To manage this complexity and take full advantage of our knowledge, we must continue to develop systems that allow our 4,600 physicians to share and integrate information, perspective and experience effectively — between facilities, across communities, over time. In 2001, Advocate was named third among the nation’s top 100 integrated health care systems.

Advancing care through innovation

Each year, thousands of people survive diseases that were once nearly always fatal. Medical research and the development of new technologies continuously expand the tools and techniques at caregivers’ disposal. By helping Advocate stay at the forefront of innovation, our donors ensure that our patients receive the latest and best in care.

Medical research and the development of new technologies continuously expand the tools and techniques at caregivers’ disposal. By helping Advocate stay at the forefront of innovation, our donors ensure that our patients receive the latest and best in care.

Christ Medical Center is one of only six sites nationwide testing the merits of minimally invasive, endoscopic surgery with the da Vinci robotic surgical system, an innovation promising patients quicker recovery and less chance of tissue and nerve damage or infection.

By sharing best practices and standardizing their educational materials, Advocate South Suburban Hospital and the seven other hospitals taught congestive heart failure patients to manage their illness more effectively than ever before.

As a not-for-profit organization, Advocate Health Care has no stockholders. The organization generates revenue from operations, investments and philanthropy, then reinvests any surplus to benefit patients, families and communities.

Because of this commitment, in 2001 Advocate returned $49.7 million of the revenue from these activities to the community in the form of community health outreach programming, charity care and unreimbursed Medicaid services. This return — our “community dividend” — represented 64 percent of our income from operations for the year and demonstrated our commitment to give back to the communities we serve.*

This distinctive commitment makes philanthropy increasingly important for Advocate. Under our faith-based mission, we serve many people who cannot afford the cost of their care; therefore, charity care and unreimbursed Medicaid services demand many of our resources. Contributed funds are vital — especially for our many community outreach programs that take health care beyond hospital walls and into the neighborhoods we serve.

* After losses from other activities, the remaining portion of the system’s income from operations was reinvested in facilities, equipment and programs. These investments benefited our communities by improving our capacity to deliver health care.
Community Benefit Activity

Charity Care
Advocate hospitals provide free or reduced-cost care to patients who demonstrate financial need according to specific criteria. In 2001, we provided charity services to more than 7,600 patients at a cost of over $16 million.

Unreimbursed Medicaid Services
Reimbursement paid by the Illinois Medicaid program does not cover the full cost of care provided. In 2001, Advocate hospitals were under-reimbursed by $13.2 million for the services they provided to more than 103,000 Medicaid patients.

Community Health Programs
As faith-based, mission-driven institutions, Advocate’s hospitals conduct outreach programs and services designed to build healthier communities, often in partnership with other organizations that have compatible missions. In 2001, nearly 1.3 million people were touched by these programs, at a cost of more than $20.5 million. Programs are pursued at two levels:

Site-focused initiatives — Responding to identified community needs, these initiatives improve services or increase access to care in the service areas of our major sites. Examples include:

Health fairs — education, referrals and health screenings for area residents
Clinics for low-income populations — health care programs that address financial, cultural and other specialized care needs of the uninsured and underinsured
School-based clinics — on-site care to enhance access for students
Inner-city adopt-a-school programs — physicals, immunizations and health screenings for at-risk grammar school students
Sibling and family support groups — peer group support, recreation and education for families challenged by the health conditions of family members
Healthier Communities partnerships — collaborations with other area organizations to address specific health issues in the surrounding community (such as asthma, diabetes, women’s health, etc.)
Parish nursing programs — health service, counseling and advocacy conducted through congregational communities

Broader initiatives — Responding to regional health needs determined by local and county-wide health assessments, or addressing the interests of the broader health and faith community. Often conducted by several Advocate hospitals working together for a wider impact, usually in partnership with other interested parties. Examples include:

Healthy Steps for Young Children — developmental and behavioral information for parents
West Side Asthma Project — targeted consultations to help sufferers manage and ameliorate their condition
Baby Advocate — immunization and development tracking for children under 2
Childhood Trauma Treatment Program — comprehensive mental health intervention for victims of childhood sexual abuse
Family Care Network — comprehensive array of family counseling services
Senior Advocate — customized wellness programs including financial and insurance counseling, referrals and discounted and/or free screenings
Adult Day Care — on-site social interaction and health monitoring for the elderly
Gilead Outreach and Referral Center — region-wide coalition to provide referrals for the uninsured
Park Ridge Center for the Study of Health, Faith and Ethics — interdisciplinary institute investigating how cultural and religious thought affect health care delivery
Medical education programs — residency and continuing medical education
Research — including clinical trials and research into new care methodologies
